

Aim 4: Developing a long term strategy for landfill

Why is this important?

Landfills play an important role in safely managing waste streams. At the moment there is no current regional strategy for managing our waste.

Priority actions to achieve this aim

1. Develop a long-term regional strategy for landfill

- Why? See page 14 of the Plan.
- For 2 short term actions, see page 17 of the Plan.

What will change and how will it affect me?

A regional strategy for landfill means that councils and alpine resorts in the north east will have a plan for the management of waste across the region. This means a practical approach is taken to the management of the region's landfilling and transport of waste, which will result in better financial and environmental efficiencies.
